Coroner Woodward was summoned, on Tuesday, to hold an inquest over the body of a man who was found dead in the ruins of a fodder house, which had been destroyed by fire the night previous, on the premises of a man named McGee, near Tennallytown. The coroner, after empanneling a jury, proceeded to examine witnesses, fourteen of whom came forward and testified in the case. From the ex-donce elicited, the jury came to the conclusion that the man had been foully dealt with, and randered a verdict accordingly. The body was identified as that of Patrick McGerrety, a soldier belonging to the Sixty-second New York volunteers. It was proved that the deceased was last seen at the house of McGee, on the afternoon of Monday, somewhat under the influence of liquor. McGee acknowledged to having sold the man liquor on that day, but denied knowing anothing about the cause of his death. McGee also confessed that he had been in the habit of selling whisky, for some time past, to the soldiers, and the law prohibiting the selling of liquor to soldiers. The body of the man was so badly burned and A Man Murdered and his Body Burned. The body of the man wasso badly burned and

The body of the man warso badly burned and disfigured as to render it difficult of recognition. The head and one of the legs were burned almost to cioders.

No evidence implicating any one in the murder was clicited from the witnesses examined, and the affect is therefore still shrouded in mystery. The body of the unfortunate volunteer was decently interred by the company to which he belonged.

Canterbury Hall.

To night inaugurates a new era at the Canterbury. The conductor makes a change today in the auditorium. The front of the house infiled with elegant resewood orchestrachairs, and the department of the parterre in the rear is filled with elegant rosewood orchestra chairs, and the department of the parterre in the rear is done away with entirely. A number of new artists make their conges to-night. Mr. James Ward, the clown, pantomimist, and juggler, Mr. William Pierce, who becam's a very great favorite hast season in this city, Miss Marion Pierce, the versattle actress, Mr. Sylvas Clark, and the new conductor of the orchestra, Mr. Goodail, a violinist of unsurpassed excellence. All these are engaged, and are presented in addition to the already very large company, lactuding the favoritee Parker, Harrison, Fox, and the Misses Hudson, La Folle, and Miles. The entertainment given at the Canterbury is certainly one of very great excellence. A performance is to be given to-morrow afternoon for ladies, families, and children, attwo o'cleck, when the entire company will appear. The matinees have been very well attended. A liberal distribution of confectionery among the audience, constitutes one of the features.

A New Theatre. A New Theatre.

We learn that Mr. Ford, well known in the atrical circles in the capacity of manager and lessee of a number of theatres, has leased the old Baptist church, on Tenth street, near E, for the purpose of converting it into a large and commodious theatre. This is a very desirable improvement, and one that cannot fail to pay Mr. Ford a handsome remuneration for his enterprise. What theatre going individual will not rejoice to learn that the days of the "Old Box" are numbered, and that Thespis will again have a fitting temple.

Parade of Burney's Zouaves.

The Twenty-third Regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, (Burney's Zouaves,) Col. D. B. Burney, encamped on Queen's farm, on the Bladenburg road, left their camp ground on Westnesday, for a parade on Pennsylvania avenue. They were accompanied by the splendid brass band belonging to the regiment, which, with the drum corps, numbered fity-four pieces. They paraded up the avenue as far as the President's grounds, through the inclosure, passing in review before President Lincoln, Secretaries Cameron and Seward. This regiment is one of the largest in the service, numbering fifteen hundred men. Parade of Burney's Zouaves

On Wednesday night, about 12 o'clock, a gentleman, whose name we could not learn, while passing along Pennsylvania avenue, in the neighborhood of Tenth street, was accosted by a man in soldier's uniform, who drew a revolver and threatened to shoot him, because (as he said) he was a secessionist. Parties passing interfered and prevented any serious results from happening. Assaulted.

With the decay of the ancient Exyptian empire the art of embalming the dead, with other useful arts, gradually declined, and, when that country became tributary to Rems, had almost become extinct, and until very recently has been regarded as one of the lost arts. Within a few years, however, much attention has been paid to the art of embalming, until at last we rival and even excel the ancients in its practice. The ancient mode of embalming the dead, according to Herodotus, was as follows: The brain was abstracted from the skull, by means of a crooked wire passed into the nostrile, the skull afterwards being washed with a strong decoction of wood vinegar and spices. The addomen was also opened and the entrallataken therefrom, the cavity being well rinsed with the bove mixture, and filled with asphaltum, gums and spices, and sewed to ether again. But the modern mode of embalming is feee from many of the objections to the ancient method, the body being preserved from all disquirement and in a perfectly natural state.

We had an opportunity of inspecting, yester day, a corpse prepared by a new method of embalming, invented by Professor Freederick Schafhirt, at the establishment of Mr. George W. Plant, undertaker, on Seventh street. The subject was a woman, who, when brought to the establishment of Mr. Plant, had been dead for nearly two weeks, and was in an advanced stage of decomposition, and very offensive. Professor Schafhirt took charge of the corpse, and in an hour's time the body presented a perfectly natural, life-like appearance, all discoloration having vanished from the face of the corpse, the checks of which even resuming their roya appearance again. The corpse has been kept up almost continually, and no offensive oder produced by the heated atmosphere of the room. The mede practiced by Professor S. is also much chaaper and quicker than that followed by other embalmers, of which there are several in the city at the present time. Mr. Plant will receive orders for embalming as practiced by Professor Schaf Embalming the Dead.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
November 30, 18-1.

In order to the security and proper disposition of the productions of the soil, and of all other property found within the limits of States or parts of States declared to be in insurcection against the United States, and now occupied, or to be hereafter occupied, by the troops and authorities of the Union, the following regulations are established:

There shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approbation of the President, agents to reside at such ports or places as are or may be occupied by the forces of the United States, whose duties shall be to secure and prepare for market the cotton and such other products and property as may be found or brought within the lines of the semy, or under the control of the Federal authorities.

To enable such agents to fulfill the duties devived upon them, the military and naval authorities, under proper instructions, will render such military protection and aid as may be required to carry out the intentions of this Department.

Persons held to service for life under State laws, who may be found within such limits, may be umployed by the agent, who will prepare lists embraoling the names, sex, and condition of such persons, and, as near as may be, thoir respective ages, together with the name of any person claiming their services, which may be employed by the exent, who will prepared late subtracing the names, sex, and condition of such persons, and, as near as may be, their respective ages, together with the name of any person claiming their services, which lists shall be in triplicate, one for the military comman dunt, one for the files of the agent, and one to be immediately fowarded to the Sccretary of the Treasury.

The persons so listed will be organized for systematic labor in securing and preparing for market the cotton, rice, and other profacts found within the territory brought under Federal control. Pay rolls will be prepared, and a strict account of the labor daily performed by each person entered thereon, for which a proper compensation shall be allowed and poid to the laborers. The amount of such composition to the service rendered, by the agent and approved by the military commandant and by the Secretary of the Treasury.

An inventory of all horses, mules, and other property, will be carefully made, and acceptionate to the Secretary of the Treasury, signed by such agent.

A record of all products taken pessession of will be made, and those of each plantation kept distinct. When prepared for shipment, the nackages from the several plantations will be plainly marked and numbered, so as to be laborers thereon. Any deficiencies of subsistence will be supplied by the United States commissary, upon the requisition of the sgent, to whom they will be charged, and for which he will account.

The cotton and other articles, when prepared for market, shall be shipped to New York, and, work a Card of Meers Moot & Chango, and at the same time to offer to
